Visual Text Comprehension MCQ (6 x 1 mark each = 6 marks)

Study this Instruction Sheet carefully and then answer questions 15-20.

Reduce, Reuse and Recycle!

Did you know that what you think is common trash items can actually be recycled to make musical instruments? You can make a simple musical instrument using an empty shoe box in five easy steps. Try it and then groove to the music!

Make a Guitar

What you need:

- a large empty shoe box
- eight paper clips
- four rubber bands
- marker pens
- sticky tape
- a pair of scissors
- two cardboard rolls (from the inside of kitchen towels)

Instructions:

1. Cut out a big hole on the cover of the shoe box. Then use the sticky tape to tape up the cover to the box.
2. Make five small holes on each side of the box, using the tip of a pencil.
3. Push the paper clips through each of these small holes and attach a rubber band on each clip. These will be your guitar strings.
4. Tape the two cardboard rolls together. Tape them securely to the top of the box. You will hold on to this part when you play your guitar.
5. Decorate your personal guitar using the marker pens. Make it as attractive as possible and strum away.

You can also make other instruments like bongo drums from plastic containers and maracas from tin cans.

Have fun with your instruments and save your environment at the same time!!

For each question from 15 to 20, choose the most appropriate option and write its number (1, 2, 3 or 4) in the brackets provided. Shade the correct oval (1, 2, 3 or 4) on the Optical Answer Sheet.

15. The instruction sheet teaches us how to _____.
- (1) make a guitar
 - (2) be a musician
 - (3) design trash items
 - (4) make bongo drums
16. Which of these items would be considered trash?
- (1) sticky tape
 - (2) a pair of scissors
 - (3) eight rubber bands
 - (4) two cardboard rolls
17. Which of these items is used to make small holes in the box?
- (1) a pencil
 - (2) a paper clip
 - (3) a marker pen
 - (4) a pair of scissors
18. Which part of the guitar would you strum to make a sound?
- (1) the paper clips
 - (2) the old shoe box
 - (3) the rubber bands
 - (4) the cardboard rolls
19. If the cardboard rolls are not secured to the box, _____.
- (1) the box might tear
 - (2) there may be no sound
 - (3) the rubber bands might break
 - (4) the handle of the guitar may come off
20. Which of the following is not true?

Section F: Comprehension (8 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

Halvor lived with his mother in a small cottage. Her hands were rough because she sewed all day long. She felt pain on her fingertips and her eyes ached from the strain of sewing.

One cold night, his mother could not sleep. She began to shiver and cough. Halvor went up to her and said, "I will find a way to become rich. I will serve you thick, hot soup for supper so that you will not shiver or cough anymore."

His mother looked up at him and said, "I do not want any thick soup or treasures. You are all that I wish for." That night, Halvor lay awake as he thought of a plan to become rich.

10

The next morning, he left the house. Along the way, he saw an old man. He asked the old man how he could give his mother the most precious treasure. The old man looked at the boy and chuckled. "Is that all?" he asked. "I wish that she gets the most valuable treasure at once," Halvor repeated. The old man told him to go home.

15

"Halvor, my treasure, where have you been?" his mother cried when she saw him. "I wanted to be rich to give you the best," he said. "You are my most valuable treasure. I can be safe all my life," she cried as she hugged him. Halvor smiled at her.

Adapted from The Most Valuable Treasure by Maggie Murphy.

Section G: Comprehension 2 (8 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

An ambulance was rushing a patient who had suffered a heart attack from his home in Bishan Road to Tan Tock Seng Hospital. As there was a traffic jam on the Central Expressway, the ambulance, went onto the road shoulder to overtake other vehicles.
The driver of a Toyota car then followed closely behind the ambulance on the road shoulder. He wanted to get past other vehicles and avoid the traffic jam.	5
Mr Ong, a paramedic who was in the ambulance, took a video of the incident and posted it on his Facebook account so that people could watch the video online.	10
Those who saw the video on Facebook were upset with the driver of the Toyota car and wanted the police to deal with such irresponsible drivers. "I put the video up to remind reckless drivers not to drive closely behind an ambulance. There are patients fighting for their lives," said Mr Ong.	15
An officer from the Traffic Police told reporters that sometimes drivers of vehicles fail to give way or challenge the ambulances by speeding dangerously on the roads. "Some drivers park their vehicles right behind the ambulances, making it impossible to open the back door to load the patient," he said.	20
All such cases will be referred to the Traffic Police at Ubi Road for investigations. The driver of the Toyota car could have committed an offence of driving on the shoulder of an expressway. Illegal travelling on the road shoulder carries a fine of up to $80.

Section D: Comprehension (6 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer questions 13 to 17.

Sue had come to stay for three days. Her presence was always a source of embarrassment for Lisa. Sue was unique, unlike any girl of her age. She loved oversized mismatched clothes and singing strange tunes.

As Sue was making her way to the front porch, she was bobbing her head and singing about her shoe laces. Lisa hurried her inside the house before any of the neighbours saw her, but it was too late. Mavis had spotted her.

"Is this your cousin?" Mavis extended her hand to Sue. "I'm Mavis, Lisa's best friend."

Sue started to sing about a girl named Mavis. Lisa blushed with embarrassment.

"That's funny," Mavis said with a smile. Mavis invited them to cycle to the park.

Lisa shook her head and said, "We can go another day."

"But I'll be gone in a few days," Sue sang.

Lisa was outnumbered and said, "Okay, but only for a little while."

Sue sang the whole way while cycling. Each song was stranger than the one before. She sang about everything from trees, to stop signs, to telephone poles.

"Your cousin is so funny. She can make up songs about anything," said Mavis.

"Sorry. I tried to warn you, but ..."

"Warn me?" Mavis creased her forehead. "Why? Sue's great!"

"You think so?"

"Yeah," Mavis smiled. "Come on, let's sing along with her."

The duo sang along with Sue. It was the first time that Lisa had enjoyed Sue's company. Lisa's feelings for her cousin had finally changed for the better.

Section E: Comprehension (10marks)

Read the passage below and answer questions 21 to 27.

Many years ago in a small Indian village, a poor farmer borrowed a large sum of money from a rich man. The rich man, who was old and ugly, liked the farmer's beautiful daughter and wanted to marry her. He was also as sly as a fox. Knowing that the farmer and his daughter had no money to pay him back, the rich man trapped them with a difficult situation.

The rich man told them that he would put a black pebble and a white pebble into an empty bag. Then, the girl would have to pick one pebble from the bag. If she picked the black pebble, she would become the rich man's wife and her father's debt would be cleared. However, if she picked the white pebble, she would not have to marry the rich man and her father's debt would be cleared. If she refused to pick a pebble, her father would be thrown into jail. The farmer and his daughter had no choice but to agree to it.

10

As they were talking, the rich man bent over to pick up two pebbles from the pavement filled with pebbles. As he picked them up, the sharp-eyed girl noticed that he had picked up two black pebbles and put them into the bag. He then asked the girl to pick a pebble from the bag.

15

The girl put her hand into the bag and drew out a pebble. Without looking at it, she fumbled and let it fall onto the pebble-strewn path where it immediately became lost among all the other pebbles.

"Oh, how clumsy of me!" she said. "But never mind, if you look into the bag for the one that is left, you will be able to tell which pebble I picked."

20

The rich man dared not admit his dishonesty. The girl's quick thinking helped her father to clear his debt and save her from marrying the rich man.

SECTION F : COMPREHENSION

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow. (10m)

The air in the forest was uncomfortably humid. Peter felt the perspiration trickling down his neck. He and his friend, Gerald, had been searching for a baby goat that had disappeared from the goat pen the night before. It was a great loss to his father. Peter was upset as his father had already lost two goats the previous month.

5 "I will find that baby goat," Peter muttered with determination as he trudged on among the bushes. They had been searching in the forest for the last twelve hours.

"Peter, could somebody have stolen it?" Gerald suddenly asked.

"Unlikely," answered Peter. "Neither the goat pen was damaged nor was the door cut open." Gerald nodded in agreement.

10 Soon, Gerald was pointing excitedly to a thick bush a few metres away. Peter ran towards him. Gerald whispered, "There is a big python lying there with a big bulge in its body. Could the baby goat be in it?"

Peter decided to go and get his father. He returned shortly with his father and some neighbours. They had some rope and a long pole. Peter managed to throw a loop around the python's neck as his neighbour gently lifted the python's body up using the long pole and ~~dropping~~ it quickly into a sack. Fortunately, the python became exhausted after gorging itself so it did not struggle much. Eventually, Peter's father sold the python to a local market in order to recover all the losses he incurred when he lost his goats.

36. Who did the following? Put a tick in the correct boxes.
The first one has been done for you. [2m]

		Peter	Gerald
Example	Was the first to spot the big python.		✓
(i)	Asked his father and some neighbours for help.

Section C: Comprehension 1 (8 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

One day, a tiger told the monkey to gather a group of animals to protect the jungle. The monkey lined them up for an inspection. The leopard, the black bear, the wolf, the donkey, the wild rabbit and the owl made up the team.

The tiger began the inspection. When he reached the end of the line, he saw the donkey, the wild rabbit and the owl. He started to laugh. 5

The monkey was surprised. He asked the tiger, "Your Majesty, what are you laughing at?"

"I'm laughing at you! This is absurd! How can you include these three small animals in my team? They can't help us to fight a war!" said the tiger.

The monkey replied, "Your Majesty, you underestimate them. The donkey 10 does not know how to kill but he is a great trumpeter. He brays loudly. He could call out to the team to warn them of enemies. When our team separates in the mountain, the wild rabbit will be our messenger. He is such a fast runner. The owl is one of the wisest animals in the jungle. She will help think of ways to defend this jungle!" 15

The tiger was impressed with the monkey's view. "You are right. Each of them has his own talent!"

The tiger apologised to the donkey, the wild rabbit and the owl for judging them too quickly.

Adapted from Roger Jenkins "Stories for Moral Education – Juniors"

For Q15 & 16, tick ✓ your chosen answer.

15. The tiger wanted to form an army to _____.(1m)

<input type="checkbox"/>	defend the jungle

Section F: Comprehension 2 (8 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

Professor Ueno had a dog named Hachiko. He showered his dog with love. Hachiko also showed his affection towards his master.

Professor Ueno worked at a university. He had to head to the train station every morning and Hachiko would accompany him all the way there. Professor Ueno would say goodbye to his dog before leaving. Hachiko would stand by and watch him go with longing eyes.

While the professor was away, Hachiko would wait patiently for him. Every evening, Hachiko would fetch his master from the train station. There was a powerful bond between the dog and his master.

One day in January 1925, Professor Ueno went to work as usual. That evening, Hachiko went to the train station to fetch his master. Professor Ueno never showed up. Hachiko was devastated by the end of the day.

Hachiko did not know that Professor Ueno had suffered from a stroke and had passed away earlier that day.

In the end, even though Hachiko was sent to stay with Professor Ueno's relatives, he would run away from their house. He did this so that he could return to the train station to wait for his master. At the end of the day, he would be disappointed but this did not stop him from coming again the next day. He did this unflinching every evening for a decade, in the hope that his master would return to him.

Hachiko's story was admired by many people. After Hachiko died, a bronze statue of him was even built in his memory.

Section H: Open-ended Comprehension (10 marks)

Read the following passage carefully. Write the answers for questions 21 to 25 that follow. (10 marks)

Omar could hardly sleep throughout his long flight from Indonesia to 1
Australia. He was on his way to meet his uncle's family for the first time in a country he had never been to before. Feeling excited, Omar wondered what Australia would look like.

When Omar got off the plane, he looked around anxiously at the sea of 5 faces around him. Then he saw a couple waving at him. Omar recognised his aunt and uncle. "Welcome, Omar!" his aunt greeted with a wide grin. "How was your flight, son?" asked his uncle as he gave Omar a tight hug. Omar felt relieved as his aunt and uncle gave him a warm welcome.

They chatted in the car during the short journey from the airport to his 10 uncle's house. Omar looked out of the window, breathing in the fresh air and taking in the new sights. He could hear dogs barking in the distance. He felt homesick for a moment.

Soon, they arrived at a charming house. A young girl was waiting for them at the driveway. When Omar got down from the car, he realised the little 15 girl was actually his cousin, Aliya, whom he had seen in photographs sent to him in the past. She ran up to him excitedly and asked, "Want to go cycling with me?" Before he could answer, Omar felt a bump at his legs. He looked down to see their family cat rubbing its body against his legs and purring. Omar had met all the members of his uncle's family. 20

Answer the following questions.

21. Read the following sentences about the passage. Circle true or false. (3 marks)

- | | |
|---|--------------|
| (a) Omar slept well during his flight. | True / False |
| (b) Omar was going to Australia for the first time. | True / False |
| (c) Omar had stayed with his uncle's family before. | True / False |

Section F: Comprehension 1 (8 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

It was Jeffrey's first visit to the wet market with his mother. It was very crowded. There were men, women, old ladies and even babies in strollers. The noise was deafening and a mixture of languages and dialects could be heard.

Jeffrey went with his mother to the butcher. He did not understand what they were saying. However, when he saw the pleased look on his mother's face, he knew she had managed to get a lower price for the meat. Next, they bought some vegetables. Jeffrey's mother spoke in another dialect to the greengrocer. He was amazed that his mother was able to speak more than one dialect.

Jeffrey was even more surprised when his mother spoke in fluent Malay to a lady who was selling some spices.

It was an eye-opening experience for Jeffrey as he walked around the market. Old ladies displayed amazing strength as they pushed their grandchildren in their strollers while holding three to four bags of food.

Finally, after buying some fruit, Jeffrey and his mother left the market. Jeffrey enjoyed helping his mother select the freshest fruit. Although the wet market was hot and he did not like the smell of the raw food, he did not mind going to there again. It had been an enriching experience.

Section G: Comprehension 2 (8 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

My father loves rearing fish. Although we live in a four-room HDB flat, he has been clever enough to transform our living room into a mini aquarium filled with lots of colourful and attractive fish. This has certainly brightened up our living room. The guests to our home will definitely not miss it. My father has some goldfish. The lionhead goldfish is one of his favourites.

Despite working as a full-time police officer and looking after us, my father still manages to find time to take care of his fish. His love for fish started when he was a child. He used to fish and play around his father's pond. They lived in a big bungalow then. My grandfather taught him the skills of fishing. My mother is also very supportive of his hobby. She often buys him books on fish and helps to feed the fish every evening. When she sees that the fish tanks are dirty, she will help clean them.

10

"Seeing the young fish grow into adult fish is like watching your children grow up and that gives me lots of satisfaction," my father said, beaming proudly at his mini aquarium. As for me, I enjoy watching my father tend to his fish and helping him select more fish from the pet shop!

15

For Questions 40 and 41, write 1, 2, 3 or 4 in the bracket.

40. Keeping fish in the living room makes the _____ [1 mark]

- (1) guests miss their home
- (2) author more interested in fish

by _____

- (1) reading books on fish
- (2) selecting more fish for the collection
- (3) teaching his father the skills of fishing
- (4) helping to feed the fishes every evening

42. These are events that occurred in the passage. Put them in the right sequence, according to the flow of the story. Write 1, 2, 3 and 4 on the boxes provided. [2 marks]

	The author enjoys watching his father take care of his fish.
	The author's father used to fish and play around his father's pond.
	The author's living room has been transformed into a mini aquarium.
	The author's mother supports his father's hobby in various ways.

43. According to the author, did being a police officer take up all of his father's time?

Explain your answer.

Section G: Comprehension [1] (10 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer questions 31 to 39.

Kanchil was a clever little mousedeer. One day, he was walking alone. Feeling thirsty, he looked for a stream. However, no rain had fallen for weeks and so the streams had dried up.

Finally, Kanchil decided to go to the river. He usually avoided the river as he knew Crocodile was always there, waiting to catch him. 5

When he reached the riverbank, Kanchil looked around but Crocodile was nowhere to be seen. Relieved, he bent his head to enjoy the water. Suddenly, he saw an object floating not far away. Kanchil jumped back, surprised. He was unsure as to whether it was a log or Crocodile.

"Hey, you in the river! If you are a crocodile, don't answer me! If you are only a log, tell me!" Kanchil shouted. 10

It was indeed Crocodile who was floating in the river. He was waiting to catch Kanchil. Without thinking, Crocodile answered, "Oh, I'm only a harmless log!"

Immediately, Kanchil ran away as fast as his legs could carry him. He laughed and shouted over his shoulder, "Oh, silly Crocodile! Have you ever heard a log talk?" 15

Section H: Comprehension [2] (10 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer questions 40 to 48.

Mr and Mrs Pulido were working in the fields on their farm. They heard loud rumblings and the earth began to shake. The Pulidos thought it was an earthquake. To their surprise, a mixture of lava and rock burst out from underneath the earth.

The mixture continued spewing out of the earth. The pile of mixture got bigger and bigger. Within a week, it became a little volcano that was as tall as a five-storey building! The villagers marvelled at the speed it grew. It was then named the Paricutin Volcano.

The Paricutin Volcano erupted regularly. The lava that flowed out of the little volcano began to burn the land around it. The lava also buried all the villages nearby. Hundreds of villagers had to move away to keep themselves safe. Lava kept flowing out of the volcano and after a year, it had grown to 336 metres tall! The Paricutin Volcano stopped erupting nine years after it was created.

The Paricutin Volcano is of great interest to scientists. Many of them came to study it. Volcanoes, such as the Paricutin Volcano, have given scientists a chance to learn more about how volcanoes change their surroundings.

Adapted from Little Red Dot 'The Baby Volcano'

SECTION G: COMPREHENSION(8 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

Settling comfortably into their seats in the dining room, the Goh family tucked into their meal eagerly. The dishes were prepared by Mrs Goh. Suddenly, the house was plunged into darkness. Alex was the first to scream, followed by his sister, Linda. They had to be pacified by their mother, Mrs Goh.

Mrs Goh said, "I will look for something to brighten the place."

Mrs Goh made her way to the kitchen while Mr Goh telephoned his neighbours to check if they were experiencing the blackout in their homes as well.

"Ouch!" yelled Mrs Goh.

She had knocked into a chair while groping around the kitchen in search of candles. Fortunately, she found three candles and some matchsticks. She lit one of the candles and went back to the dining room.

Soon, Mrs Goh returned to the dining room with the lighted candle. Alex was relieved.

15

Mr Goh said, "Thanks, dear. You are a gem!"

After Mr Goh had lit the remaining two candles, the family continued to have their dinner by the candlelight.

"Hey, let's do this more often," said Mr Goh after dinner.

Mrs Goh gave him a hard stare as if she was saying, "Don't talk nonsense!"

20

Suddenly, the entire house was bathed with the brightness of the house lights.

"Hooray, the lights are back! I don't want this to happen again!" said Alex.

Section I: Comprehension: Selected Response (4 marks)

Read the following passage carefully and answer questions 39 to 42.

I sat down on a vacant and rotting bench with a frown formed on my forehead. I sighed as the images of the morning's defeat kept playing in my head. I had just lost in the tennis finals which I was expected to win. A tear rolled down my left cheek. I was upset not for my loss but for the fear of disappointing my mother.

As I was feeling sorry for myself, a young boy approached me. He stood right before me with his head tilted down and said with great excitement, "Look what I found!" I was not in the mood to play with him and I wished that he would go away. I looked at him angrily for disturbing me and before I could ask him to go away, he sat down beside me. I turned to look at him and realised that he was holding a dried-up flower in his hand.

In his hand was a sad-looking flower, a wilted flower. To my surprise, he brought the flower to his nose and said, "It smells good and it is beautiful." At that moment, I noticed for the very first time that the boy could not see. He was blind.

Section J: Comprehension: Open-Ended (8 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer questions 43 to 47.

Like many other parrots, Willie is a mimic. He says, "Give me food", "Come here" and "I want out". However, unlike most parrots, Willie has a truly remarkable story. When he spontaneously added a new word to his range, he saved a life.

Last November, Megan volunteered to babysit her friend's daughter, Hannah, in her house.

Megan's 11-month-old parrot, Willie, was in his cage in a corner of the living room. Megan toasted pizza for Hannah and put it on the dining room table. As it was too hot to eat, the child went into the living room to watch television. She seemed contented, so Megan went to the bathroom.

Minutes later, Willie became hysterical in his cage. He was flapping his wings, screeching, "Mama, baby! Mama, baby!"

Megan rushed into the room to see Hannah's face turning blue as she was choking on her food. Megan quickly wrapped her arms around Hannah's stomach and pushed it in. The food dislodged from Hannah's throat.

"He calls me Mama, so he was obviously trying to get my attention. What really amazes me is that he added the word 'baby' on his own," Megan recalled.

Arriving home shortly after the incident, Megan's friend found her daughter playing happily. "I don't even want to think what would have happened without Willie," she said gratefully. Megan added that the moment she had taken charge, Willie stopped squawking. It was as if he knew things were under control.

Section G: Comprehension 1 (8 marks)

Read the passage below and answer questions 35 to 40.

For several years, Maria, a teenage girl from America had been doing her part to ensure that many children all over the world had access to books.

Since she was eight years old, Maria loved reading. However, she noticed that some of her poorer classmates did not read as much as she did. Maria asked her mother what the reason could be. Her mother said that they might not be able to afford books. Maria had never thought of this and was in disbelief. She felt that reading books was very important as it could enrich the minds of readers and improve their language. She was determined to make books easily available to other children. 5

With her mother's help, Maria created Book World. Book World is an organisation dedicated to collecting and distributing books to children in need. During the early stages of Book World, Maria set a goal to collect and distribute one million books by the time she was eighteen years old. 10

By the age of fourteen, she had already collected over two million books and shipped them to many countries around the world. She said, "I cannot live without books. As I continue my work, I have learnt that the number of kids who have no books are in the hundreds of millions. So I cannot stop even after reaching my original target of distributing one million books." 15

She recently set a new goal to distribute books to children in need in every country in the world. She kept track of her progress on a large map at the warehouse where she stored and sorted books. 20

Comprehension 2 (8 marks)

Read the following passage carefully and answer questions 41 to 46

Once upon a time, there was a foolish king who believed that he was the smartest person in his kingdom. He was so convinced that he offered a reward to anyone who could trick him.

One day, a poor but intelligent man, Ron, came to the palace to challenge the king. The king warned him, "I am not easily tricked. How are you going to defeat me?" 5

"I have a special trick, your majesty. However, I was in a such a hurry that I forgot to bring my tools along," Ron replied calmly.

"You use tools for tricking people? That's incredible!" the king was amazed. Ron nodded confidently. 10

"I would like to see the tools that you use. Why don't you go home and return with them?" the king ordered.

"But I need a hundred horse-pulled carts to bring them all. And it will take at least six months to load them," Ron replied.

"Take whatever you need from my stables, but come back as soon as you can," the king said impatiently. 15

So Ron took one hundred of the finest horses and one hundred carts before setting out to his village. Once in the village, Ron split the horses among the villagers and together, they completed one season of harvesting within a short time and became richer. 20

Before Ron left his village, he sold all the horses and carts given to him and bought a black donkey instead. He returned riding on the black donkey.

"Where are your tools and where are my horses?" the king asked.

The horses turned into donkeys on the way and ran away with all the tools. "I could only catch one donkey. Why did you give me such horses?" he asked the king calmly. At that moment, the king was speechless as he could not prove whether Ron was telling the truth or not. He knew then that he had been tricked and 25

SECTION F: COMPREHENSION (8 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

The wolf was the greediest animal in the forest. He always gobbled down his food in two quick bites. The other animals would hide whenever they hear his growl. It was a deep and menacing cry. They knew that the wolf was looking for his next meal, and it might be them.

5 One day, the wolf howled, "There's a bone stuck in my throat and I can't get it out. If any of you can help me, I'll give you anything you like!" All the animals scrambled away except the brave crane. After thinking about the wolf's offer for a long time, she swooped down from the tree branch.

10 "I'll help!" cried the crane who was tempted by the reward. The wolf broke into a cunning smile before opening his mouth. The crane boasted confidently, "I can reach down your throat with my long beak." Then, she inserted her beak into the wolf's throat and extracted the bone.

15 After that, the crane demanded for her reward. The wolf gave her a wide grin. "You have already gotten it. You placed your head in my mouth and lived to tell the tale," he growled deeply. Upon hearing that, the crane knew that she had been tricked. Fearing for her safety, she flapped her wings and flew up into a tree.

SECTION G: COMPREHENSION (4 X 2 marks = 8 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

One morning, Ali stared out of the window. The sky was grey and water droplets flowed down the windowpanes rapidly. "Nothing is going to stop me from meeting the boys," he thought. Ali packed some sandwiches and walked towards the door. "You aren't going out in this weather!" Ali's mother yelled from the kitchen.

5 Ali sighed. His hopes of sneaking out unnoticed were dashed. He stomped upstairs and walked towards the attic to sulk. It was dark and no one would be able to see him there. However, it was occupied by his sister, Doreen, and her three dolls.

10 Frustrated that Doreen had taken his favourite spot, Ali ran downstairs and darted to the backyard instead. He headed to the shed where Father had kept his pigeons. Their cooing could be heard as he opened the door. Soon, the comforting cooing soothed his anger.

15 "Why don't I borrow one of them?" Ali wondered aloud. He kept his eyes peeled for the most well-behaved one. Ali thought his friends would like the pigeon too. Finally, he grabbed one of them.

20 Ali slipped out of the shed and closed the door carefully. He sprinted through the backyard and down the lane. Finally, he arrived at the house where his friends gathered weekly. He was glad that the door was left ajar. He peeped into the house, hoping to surprise them with the pigeon. To his disappointment, none of his friends was there. He turned around and made his way home.

Adapted from No Friend of Mine by Ann Turnbull

Section F: Comprehension 1 (10 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

Every week, Ruben, Alex and Julia would go for a big family meal at their grandparents' house. The cousins would always wait excitedly for Grandfather to give them two dollars to buy something for themselves. All the children would run off to buy drinks and snacks immediately after Grandfather had given them the money. 5
After some time, Grandfather was afraid that the children would never learn how to manage their money. He decided to give them a challenge. The children would have to compete to see who could save the most in a year and Grandfather would reward the winner with fifty dollars. 10

Ruben and Julia did not care about winning the challenge. They continued spending all their money on drinks and snacks. On the other hand, Alex was set on winning it so he saved all his money. By the end of the year, Alex had saved the most and won the cash reward. Grandfather was extremely pleased with Alex and praised him. The 15

Section G: Comprehension 2 (10 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

Dear Mum and Dad,

My friends and I are enjoying the cool climate of Australia. I would like to share with you some of our interesting experiences.

Our group consists of six boys and four girls. Last Saturday, we went out to a hill to enjoy a picnic there. Peace View was a lovely spot. 5
A few of us sat down to eat our specially-prepared sandwiches while the rest of us flew our kites. The weather was cool and the sky was clear. It was also a breezy day, making it perfect for kite-flying.

The following morning, all of us went fishing. The sea was just a stone's throw away from where we stayed. We brought along our 10 fishing rods, reels, a huge basket, a can of worms and a few other things. Out of the group, only three of us managed to catch one fish each. We were quite disappointed.

On the last day of our stay in Sydney, we had a campfire. We chose a campsite somewhere near the beach. After we had cleared some 15 rubbish from the spot, the boys pitched a few tents while the girls built a fire and prepared the food. At about seven, we had a barbeque. It was great eating outdoors under the stars. That was a memorable new experience!

I'll stop here. I'll write again when time permits. Take care and 20 see you soon.

Your son,

Joseph

Section I: Comprehension (8 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

Black and white stripes make the zebras one of the most recognisable animals in the world. The Plains zebras are the most famous of the three species of zebras, living in the grasslands of Africa. The other two species are Grevy's zebras and Mountain zebras. Plains zebras also have a different stripe pattern unlike the other species. They have underbelly stripes.

Zebras are smart animals. With a keen sense of hearing and excellent eyesight, they are able to stay clear of predators such as lions and cheetahs. If a zebra spots a predator, it lets out a sharp two-syllable call. The young and female zebras run, while the males trail behind to defend them. If one is attacked, others circle around to help protect it from predators.

10

Zebras are also herbivores. They spend the majority of their day eating, mostly grazing on grass. To keep up with the frequent grinding of the food they eat, their back teeth continue to grow throughout their lives.

Zebras are known to travel great distances to find food and water when the dry season arrives. When not eating or travelling, they do take the opportunity to sleep.

Section C: Comprehension (8 marks)

Read the following passage and answer questions 15 to 19.

Tara was preparing for a Science fair to be held two weeks later, on a Wednesday. She liked Science and she wanted to be a scientist one day.

She used a checklist her teacher had given to plan for her Science exhibit. That Friday evening, she realised her plant experiment was not working. The plants that were kept in the dark and not watered, were growing better than those placed in the sun and watered often!

Tara needed to switch gears and produce a new idea for her exhibit. She stayed up late that night, to read up more on plants. The next day, she started work fast.

She found a glass jar. She filled it with a thin layer of sand and covered the sand with some dirt. Next, she put in a few hermit crabs. She placed a small bowl of water, some crab food powder and tiny plants in the jar. Finally, she put a piece of net over the mouth of the jar and fastened it with a rubber band. This allowed air to come through the net. She was pleased with her new exhibit and hoped her teacher would be too.

The day finally arrived. Tara proudly placed her research journal beside her seashore terrarium.

Section F: Comprehension (8 marks)

Read the following passage and answer questions 31 to 37.

Once, there were four men who each thought they were the wisest. They argued over who was the wisest. Finally, a respected old teacher created a test to settle the argument.
The next morning, he sent the men to the woods where they saw a large pile of bones under a tree.	5
They wondered how they could use the bones to show how wise they were. The first man said he would put them back together like a jigsaw puzzle. Soon, they could see that it was a skeleton of an animal.
The second man said he knew what animal the bones came from. Using his knowledge, he put flesh and fur back on the bones. Before long, a fierce-looking grizzly bear appeared.	10
The two men started bickering over whose work was the best. The third man spoke, "I can bring the bear back to life. Then, I will be the wisest."
However, the fourth man cried, "I don't think we should make this ferocious animal alive again. It may attack us." He pleaded with them for a long time but they ignored him. So, he climbed up a tree and watched.	15
The third man then brought the bear to life. It stretched, roared and pounced on them, killing them.
When the fourth man returned to the village and told them what had happened, everyone realised that he was indeed the wisest man.	20

Dear Diary,

It has been amazing today! For the first time this year, I reached school (20) _____ all my classmates. I even had the time to get a drink before going to the hall to assemble. The bus driver drove like a Grand Prix competitor. He was going really fast (21) _____ the straight roads and he also made thrilling swerves and turns (22) _____ corners and bends. I wished the ride could go on and on.

During lessons, I was able to answer the teacher's questions and even got to sit (23) _____ my two best pals during groupwork. It was so much fun. I actually enjoyed my day at school today. Hurray!

Love,

Leon

Passage 2

For questions 24 to 27, read the passage carefully. Write the correct form of the verb in each blank. (4 x 1 mark)

It was the last day of vacation, and Heidi could not be happier. "Hurry up, everyone," she (24) _____ (yell). "It's a perfect day for whale watching!" Her brother groaned "You are such a weird little kid. Don't you ever (25) _____ (think) about anything else except whales?" "Not if I can help it," Heidi answered cheerfully.

She and her family were finally (26) _____ (go) on a whale-watching boat ride.

While on the boat, Heidi (27) _____ (see) water everywhere. She was straining her eyes to look for whale spouting when suddenly, a shout went up. "Whale ahead!" Heidi gasped. Right in front of her was a huge grey whale, rising out of the water before crashing back into the ocean with an enormous splash.

Have you heard of the Galapagos Islands? They were once called the Enchanted Isles. The (28) _____ they appeared and disappeared in the fog made early sailors think the islands might be floating in the air.

Strong ocean currents made sailing near them (29) _____. When sailors did manage to come ashore, they found marvellous plants and animals that lived nowhere else on Earth.

Not many people live on the Galapagos. There is not (30) _____ water for them to drink. As a result, the plants and animals have thrived, undisturbed by humans. Over the years, many scientists from around the world have flocked (31) _____ to the Galapagos to carry out research and learn how the fauna and flora adapt in different environments.

Galapagos means "tortoise" in Spanish. The giant tortoises are probably the most famous animals on the islands. Besides them, the islands are also home to two kinds of lizards that live nowhere else on Earth—the land iguana that feeds on cactus and the marine iguana that loves algae. Indeed, animals on the Galapagos are unlike animals anywhere else on Earth!

Section E: Comprehension (10 marks)

Read the following passage carefully. Then write the answers for questions 36 to 40.

A village chief was making his yearly rounds through his village. In Ah Seng's old house, a strange sight caught his attention. He noticed a pig with a wooden leg hobbling about. Curious, the chief asked, "Excuse me, why does that pig have a wooden leg?"

"Oh, it's like this, Sir. Last month, a robber entered my house, tied my family members up and then stole our jewellery. The robber was about to escape when the pig appeared out of nowhere, attacked him and saved my family." 5

"Oh, I see," said the chief in disbelief, "but I still don't understand. Why does the pig have a wooden leg?" 10

"Oh, it's like this Sir. Last week, a fire broke out in my house when my family was watching a movie at the nearby cinema. The pig alerted our neighbours, ran around organising a water bucket system and helped the firemen extinguish the fire."

The village chief was getting quite annoyed. "Listen, Mr Ah Seng, your two stories are very interesting but I still don't understand why the pig has a wooden leg." 15

"Oh, it's like this, Sir," Ah Seng said. "We used to have an old well in our backyard. One day, my little daughter fell down the well. The pig jumped in, saved the girl, covered the well with planks and we never had that trouble again." 20

By then, the chief had lost his patience. "I STILL DON'T UNDERSTAND! Why does that pig of yours have a wooden leg?"

Ah Seng appeared absolutely calm. "Well, you know," he said finally, "with a pig that good, my family could not bear to eat it all at one go." 25

Section H (4 x 2m)

Comprehension Open-ended

Read the passage below and answer questions 39 to 42. Your answers must be based on the passage.

As Sarah was walking home from school, tears welled up in her eyes. Her teacher had scolded her that morning for being irresponsible. She had forgotten to bring her homework. After all she was a prefect and was supposed to be a good role model to her classmates.

While walking past a park, Sarah noticed a baby, about two years old crawling on the grass. She scanned the area. The baby's mother was nowhere to be seen. Sarah was alarmed because a deep pond was less than a metre away. 5

sarah ran towards the baby and grabbed him in the nick of time. Picking him up, she asked him where his mother was. He could not talk but pointed to a nearby building. 10

Sarah walked towards the building and saw a frantic-looking woman talking to a policeman. "Excuse me! Is this your baby?" Sarah asked. Both adults ran towards Sarah. The woman, Mrs Daisy, thanked Sarah profusely in between her sobs. After the officer had taken down Sarah's details and statements, she headed home. 15

The next morning, the headlines in the newspapers read, "Responsible Girl Saves Baby". That same morning, Mrs Daisy bought a box of chocolates and delivered it to Sarah's house personally.

Adapted From: Chicken Soup for the Kids Soul 2-Responsible Chrissy.

ALL ANSWERS MUST BE IN COMPLETE SENTENCES.

39. What happened in school that made Sarah feel sad?

40. Why did Sarah feel that she was not a good role model to her classmates?

41. Which sentence from lines 5 to 11 tells you that Sarah did not waste any time in trying to save the baby?

42. Was Sarah an irresponsible girl? Give a reason to support your answer.

Section I – Comprehension 1

Read the passage below and answer questions 35 to 42.

(8 marks)

It was a sunny morning. Alice and her brother, Tom, decided to visit Singa Forest Reserve. Tom had brought along a camera. They saw monkeys up in the trees and squirrels scurrying around looking for food. However, what fascinated them more was the large amount of wild mushrooms! They were growing under a shady tree.

"Look, Tom! Mushrooms! Let's pick some for dinner!" Alice shouted to Tom.

"Wait! Let me take some pictures of them," said Tom.

A group of school children were equally excited to see the mushrooms and began taking photographs of them.

"What a rare and beautiful sight!" exclaimed their teacher as she walked over to have a closer look at the mushrooms too. Shortly after, she led the children to another part of the forest reserve.

10

All of a sudden, Tom and Alice heard a loud frightening sound. They hid behind a tree quickly. It turned out to be a wild pig's grunt. Without warning, the wild pig rushed past them.

15

"Oh dear! Let's get out of this place!" screamed Alice as she turned and ran towards the exit of the reserve. Tom followed closely behind. He looked worriedly behind him all the time. Fortunately, the children managed to leave the forest reserve safely. Once home, they told their parents what they had experienced at the forest reserve. Their father told them that wild pigs had been spotted in the forest recently. He told them to be careful if they decided to go to the forest reserve again.

"It's Granny's birthday today. Let's give her a special birthday card," said Sara to her brothers, Tim and Dan. They went to a few bookshops but did not find a suitable card. Tim suggested going to a department store in the shopping mall near their house. There, they found the perfect card for Granny. It was a musical greeting card which played a birthday song when opened. The children were very pleased. The minute they reached home, they took out their pens, ready to write their messages for Granny on the card.	5
"Let me write my name first!" exclaimed Dan as he pushed Sara and Tim aside.
In his excitement, Dan, accidentally knocked over his cup of water and it spilled onto Granny's card! The children were upset as the card was ruined. Just then, Sara had an idea.	10
"We'll sing the birthday song as we bring in the cake. I'm sure Granny will be thrilled!" said Sara excitedly.
The brothers agreed so they set off to buy a birthday cake for Granny. They chose a cake which had strawberries on it as they were Granny's favourite fruit. Then they went to Granny's house.	15
Granny was delighted when Sara, Tim and Dan surprised her with the cake and sang her the birthday song as they walked into the house. She had a fun time celebrating her birthday with the children. It was a memorable day for all of them.	20

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

Once upon a time, an elephant lived next to a big tree. One day, a bird flew by and nested in the tree. The elephant heard the bird's beautiful singing. Feeling envious, the elephant grumbled about the fact that he had been born an elephant. The bird told the elephant that he was very lucky to be big and strong but the elephant did not listen.

The elephant then made up his mind to climb the tree, perch on a branch, and start singing too. However, he failed to climb the tree as he did not have claws.

Realising that he could never climb the tree, he threw his whole weight angrily against the tree and it nearly came crashing to the ground. After a while, the elephant felt better and began singing.

Unfortunately, the elephant could not sing either. He was making horrible noises. When the monkeys nearby heard this, they gathered round to make fun of the elephant but the bird flew down and stopped them.

The elephant was so embarrassed by this that he decided to love himself for who he was. He also felt ashamed for nearly knocking the tree over. The elephant thanked the bird and promised to appreciate his strengths from then on.

Section G: Comprehension 2 (8 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

Ann wished she could receive a new dress as a Christmas gift. All her friends would be getting new dresses. However, Ann did not want to ask her mother for a gift. She knew how hard her mother worked to make ends meet. She wished that Santa Claus would visit her even though she was sure that he was not real. Ann was also worried about her mother as she had been working late every day for the past weeks. Ann thought she looked pale and worn out.

Soon, it was Christmas Eve. Every child went to bed early, eagerly awaiting the lovely gifts that he or she would receive the next day. However, Ann went to bed with a heavy heart. She knew that there would be no gifts for her.

Ring! The alarm woke Ann up. It was Christmas day! She looked if there were any gifts for her and she found a beautiful package tied with a red ribbon! Ann excitedly opened the package and saw a pretty dress. Suddenly, a small piece of paper fell out from the dress. The note read: "Dear Ann, This dress is a present for you for being a good girl. Yours, Santa Claus."

Ann looked carefully and realised that the handwriting belonged to her mother. She also remembered that her mother had bought a red ribbon a week ago. Her mother had worked overtime to save money to buy this expensive gift. Ann was happy beyond words. She knew that she was a lucky girl to have such a wonderful mother.

Section G: Comprehension [1] (10 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer questions 31 to 39.

Whales live in the sea, but they are not fish. Like seals and dogs, whales are mammals. They cannot breathe underwater like fish, so they come to the surface to fill their lungs with air.

The biggest whales are the blue whales. They are bigger than any dinosaur known to have lived. An adult can weigh as much as five trucks. A newborn calf is 5 heavier than an elephant and can drink up to 490 litres of its mother's milk a day.

Big whales need to eat several tons of food a day. They feed on some of the smallest plants and animals in the sea called plankton. For example, the bowhead whale swims along with its mouth open, catching millions of plankton. It has no teeth. Instead, it has strips of whale bone in its mouth that act as a sieve to trap 10 food.

Grey whales spend the summer in the Arctic Ocean. In the autumn, they travel thousands of miles south to have their young in the warm waters of California and Mexico. The mothers keep a careful watch on their babies to protect them from any danger. 15

These gentle whales are indeed remarkable creatures. We should do our best to ensure their survival.

Section H: Comprehension [2] (10 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer questions 40 to 45.

As a young horse, I lived in a large, brown stable in a meadow. Shady trees leaned over a nearby pond and water lilies grew at the deep end. It was a place with plenty of fresh air.

When I was very young, I fed on my mother's milk as I could not eat grass. As soon as I was old enough to eat grass, my mother went out to work in the daytime and came back in the evening. We frequently galloped around the meadow in the evenings and met up with other horses.

Our master was a kind, humble man. He gave us a comfortable home and enough food. He spoke to us as kindly as he spoke to his children. My mother would always neigh with joy and trot up to him whenever she saw him.

Soon, I became a fully-grown horse. I would never forget the day I was sold and had to leave the meadows and go to Gordon's Park. My coat had been brushed till it shone. My master came to say goodbye to me. I put my nose into his hand as he patted my head. Then I walked away with a heavy heart. I had tears in my eyes as I left my first home.

"Something is wrong," said Officer Lee.

"I know! How can anyone steal something that is so precious to me? My mother gave it to me before she passed away," Mrs Julie replied.

"This is not what I am talking about," said Officer Lee as he looked around Mrs Julie's flat trying to figure out how the burglar had broken into the flat. Looking puzzled, he shook his head and folded his arms. 5

Feeling upset, Mrs Julie nearly burst into tears. Officer Lee told her that the burglar had not used the windows to enter the flat. He also observed that the windows had not been opened for months.

Then Officer Lee walked to the front door and examined the latch. He was sure that the burglar had not used the front door either. Mrs Julie was baffled as she could not understand how the burglar had entered her flat. 10

"Did the burglar steal your money, jewellery or equipment?" asked Officer Lee.

"No," Mrs Julie replied. 15

Mrs Julie said that she was getting old and her memory was failing her. With the recipe stolen, she could not remember the ingredients needed to bake her cakes. Officer Lee was shocked to hear that. Since young, he had loved to eat Mrs Julie's cakes. Officer Lee told Mrs Julie that he would definitely help her find the stolen recipe and the culprit. 20

Section H: Comprehension 1 (8 marks)

Read the following passage carefully and answer questions 35 to 39.

Sofia became blind due to an illness. In the beginning, getting through each day was difficult. Her husband, Daniel, an army officer, had watched her sink into despair and was determined to help her become independent.

Finally, Sofia felt ready to return to work, but was frightened to take the bus by herself. Daniel volunteered to drive her to work daily, even though they worked 5 at opposite ends of the city. Soon, Daniel realised that it was time-consuming for him to take her to her workplace before he went to work. Hence, Daniel taught Sofia to rely on her other senses to take the public bus instead. He accompanied her for a week.

Finally, Sofia was ready to try the trip on her own. 10

One morning, as she was paying for her bus fare, the driver said, "Miss, I envy you."

Feeling curious, she asked him, "Why do you say that you envy me? I am a blind woman."

The driver answered, "Every morning, a gentleman in an army uniform 15 standing across the corner watches you get off the bus. Then, he watches you cross the road until you enter your office building safely. He also blows you a kiss, gives you a little salute and walks away."

Sofia realised that she had a gift more precious than sight - love.

Section I: Comprehension 2 (8 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer questions 40 to 44.

Mrs Lim had just returned from the minimart, lugging the groceries through the kitchen door. She had grown weary from her early morning chores and was glad to be home. Tom clapped his hands when he caught a glimpse of his favourite snack, Twistees, in one of his mother's shopping bags. He took his packet of Twistees and began to relate to his mother, what Sam, his younger brother, had done. 5

"Mummy, while I was playing in the garden, Sam took his crayons and wrote on the wall. It's on the newly-painted wall in the living room. I told him that you'd be mad but he still continued doing it."

"All right. Go play with Sam," said Mother. She continued to unpack her groceries as she thought about what to prepare for dinner that night. 10

Thinking that her response was strange, Tom grabbed his mother's hands to get her full attention and repeated it one more time. It was only then that Mother finally listened to Tom. Realising what Sam had done, Mother furrowed her brow. "Where is your little brother right now?"

Immediately, Mrs Lim went to Sam's bedroom and called out his full name as she entered his room. Sam hid in the cupboard, trembling with fear. He knew that he was in hot soup when she called him in that manner! 15

Mother gave Sam a dressing down for his action. The more she scolded, the angrier she got. Mother then stomped out of his room, totally distraught!

She headed for the living room to confirm her fears. However, when she saw the wall, her eyes flooded with tears. The message she read pierced her soul. It read, "I love Mummy," surrounded by a heart. 20

Section G: Comprehension 1 (8 marks)

Read the passage below and answer questions 35 to 40.

Early yesterday morning, pupils arrived at Suntec Singapore Convention Hall for the biggest spelling competition. Many competitors were unprepared for the sight of over 1,800 seats at the preliminary round of the National Spelling Championship. Indeed, the 2016 spelling competition received its largest number of participants in its five-year history. Cheryl Wu, a primary five pupil who took part in the competition for the first time was shocked to see so many people taking part. 5

The round started easily, with competitors quickly writing down the first few words they heard from the audio recording. As words became trickier, many took longer to think before offering their answers.

Spellers had mixed reactions after the hour-long written test. Some found this year's preliminary easier than last year's. Others thought that the difficulty level was about the same. 10

Two words starting with "h" were among pupils' most commonly cited difficult words. 'Haberdashery' is a term for sewing materials, while 'herpetology' is a branch of zoology about amphibians and reptiles. 15

Addressing the participants at the end of the session, the organisers praised the pupils for their sportsmanship and perseverance. They also hoped that the participants had enjoyed and learnt from the competition.

After yesterday's round, only the top twenty spellers would qualify for the final round. They would then compete for the top prize of $5,000 and the challenge trophy for their school. 20

Comprehension 2 (8 marks)

Read the following passage carefully and answer questions 41 to 46.

Long ago, there lived a one-eyed king who ruled the entire kingdom. He was very fond of arts and crafts. He generously rewarded the great artists, poets and craftsmen. However, the king never liked any person who was dishonest. He was a man of truth and wanted his people to be honest.

The king was born with only one eye. He had vision on his right eye and the space for the left eye was simply closed with the skin! One day, he wanted a portrait of himself to be drawn and made an announcement to the entire kingdom. After selecting the talented artists, the king asked the three men to draw his face. 5

He told them, "If you do an exceptional job, I will reward you with a chest of gold. If not, you will be severely punished!" 10

All the three artists were nervous but agreed and started to sketch his face.

The first artist showed the painted picture of the king. The king felt angry as the portrait showed the king with both eyes but one of the eyes was shown blind and totally white. The artist was sentenced to imprisonment for ten years. The king felt that the picture was a dishonour to a ruler showing a physical disability! 15

Then, the second artist showed his picture and even he was imprisoned for five years. The picture depicted the king having vision in both eyes. The king bellowed, "You are a dishonest man. You falsely praised me to earn a reward."

After seeing the first two artists being thrown into prison, the third artist was afraid. With shivering hands, he showed the picture he drew to the king. The king saw his portrait and smiled. The third artist drew the king's face with only one eye! He was rewarded a fortune for his honesty. 20

SECTION F: COMPREHENSION (8 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

It was snowing. Basil was shut in. He sat slumped at his bedroom window, watching the snow pile up. "Most children would give anything to live in a lighthouse, but they have no idea how boring it really is living here," Basil muttered.

5 Basil stared out of the window. A voice unexpectedly drifted through the window. Basil was used to the occasional fisherman passing by and stopping for some conversation. He looked down to see which fisherman it was, but no one was there.

10 The voice signalled him to look up. He stood motionless at the window, which was three storeys above the rocks and sea below. His jaw dropped and his eyes bulged. "This is amazing! A boat is suspended in the air by an enormous balloon!" cried Basil.

A jovial man in the boat was asking for the direction to the city. Basil's astonishment was replaced by excitement. This could be a great opportunity and he would have to act fast! Basil offered to join the man to show him the way. The pilot let out a bellowing laugh, "A boy seeking for an adventure? Hop on board!"

15 Stepping up to the ledge of his window, Basil prepared to leap. With that, Basil made the mightiest leap of his life!

SECTION G: COMPREHENSION (4 X 2m = 8 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

Long ago in India, judges travelled from village to village. One day, a judge stopped at an inn to rest. He noticed the innkeeper look very disturbed. He was wailing, "Oh no, someone has just stolen my daughter's gold ring!"

5 The judge told him not to worry and had all the guests at the inn gather so that he could question them. When he could not figure out from their answers who the thief was, the judge decided to use some old magic. He told them he was going to have to use the sticks of truth.

"These are magic sticks," he explained, "that will catch the thief."

He gave each guest a stick to keep under their bed during the night.

10 "The stick belonging to the thief will grow two inches during the night. At breakfast we will compare the sticks and the longest stick will be the thief's," the judge warned.

15 The next morning, the judge had all the guests come by his table and compare their sticks. One after another, the sticks were the same. None of them had grown any longer. Suddenly, the judge pointed to a woman and called out, "This is the thief! Her stick is two inches shorter than the rest."

20 The judge had said the longest stick would be the thief's. Instead, it had been the shortest stick. All the guests saw through this woman's trick and pointed fingers at her. Once caught, the woman confessed and the ring was returned to the rightful owner.

Stories to Solve by George Shannon

Section F: Comprehension 1 (10 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

Once upon a time, an old man lived with his three sons in a village. Although his three sons were hardworking, they were also quarrelsome and selfish. They disagreed and quarrelled about everything. This troubled the old man so much that he fell sick. When the old man had recovered from his illness, he decided to teach them a lesson so that they would disregard their differences and remain united. The old man was afraid his plan would fall through but he was determined to try for his sons' sake.

The old man told his three sons, "I will give you a bundle of sticks. You will have to break each stick into two pieces. The one who breaks all the sticks first will be rewarded.

Soon after, they agreed and all of them broke the sticks into pieces in minutes. They started to quarrel among themselves about who came in first.

The old man said, "Dear sons, the game is not over. Now, I will give you another bundle of sticks. You will have to break the sticks as a bundle this time."

The sons agreed. Unfortunately, however hard they tried, they could not break the bundle. The fact that they could not do this upset them.

The old man replied, "Dear sons, see! You could easily break the single sticks into pieces, but you could not break the bundle! You are like the sticks. If you stay united, nobody can harm you. If you quarrel all the time, anyone can easily defeat you."

The three sons understood the power of unity. They also promised their Father that they would stay united no matter what happened. Finally, the old man beamed. His sons had learnt their lesson.

Section G: Comprehension 2 (10 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

This is a true story of a boy named Howard Kelly. Although he was born underprivileged, he was undeterred and sold goods from one house to another just to earn a living and to pay for his education. He also wanted to save up for rainy days. One day, he felt very hungry and decided to ask for something to eat at the next house. However, he was tongue-tied when a beautiful young woman opened the door for him. 5

Instead, he asked for a glass of water. However, the kind young lady brought him one large glass of milk. He thanked her with all his heart.

Years passed and the woman became seriously ill. The local doctors sent her to a hospital in the big city. They also called in a specialist, Dr Howard Kelly, to study her rare illness. 10

When Dr Kelly heard the name of the town where the patient came from, his eyes lit up. He went to see the patient and recognised her immediately. He was determined to save the woman who had once made a difference in his life. After a long battle, he finally won. 15

The woman received the bill and was afraid to look at it for she was very sure that the cost would be too high and it would probably take all her life to pay for it. When she finally looked at it, something caught her eye. At the corner of the bill were the words "Paid in full with a glass of milk – Dr Kelly".

Section I: Comprehension (8 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

There was once an elephant who wanted to be a photographer. His friends would say, "How silly! There aren't any cameras for elephants!" Others would say, "There's nothing to photograph here anyway."

The determined elephant managed to put together some old bits of junk and spare parts and came up with a camera. With his camera, he designed everything himself; from the button he pressed with the end of his trunk, to a lens made to fit his eye. 5

When it was completed, the elephant could finally take his first photograph. He was beaming with pride. His camera was so enormous and strange-looking that all his friends laughed at him when they saw him with it. Feeling sad, he thought of giving up his dream. 10

Things turned out differently. The sight of the elephant walking about with his camera was so funny that no one could help but laugh when they saw him. Using a great deal of good humour, the elephant managed to take some really amusing pictures of all the animals. In the photographs, they always looked joyful, including the moody rhinoceros! The elephant managed to become the official photographer, something he did not expect. Eventually, his friends would come from all places to have some nice photographs taken. The elephant could not wait to visit the zoo to take some photographs of the animals there. 15

Section C: Comprehension 1 (8 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

One night, while watching her favourite cartoon show on television, Mikayla fell asleep on the sofa. Her father Mr Bert, scooped her up into his arms. Her mother led the way to Mikayla's bedroom. They put her on the bed. Then, they tiptoed out of the room quietly.

It was 11.30pm when the peaceful night was broken by Mikayla's piercing screams. Mr Bert woke up in shock! He dashed into Mikayla's bedroom. He discovered a puncture wound on his daughter's left hand, and another on her elbow.

"Snake! Mikayla has been bitten by a snake!" he exclaimed. "Stay at home to find the snake!" he instructed Mrs Bert. Hands trembling, he bundled Mikayla into his car. Then, he drove as fast as he could to the nearest hospital.

After a while, a call came from Mrs Bert. She had found a metre-long cobra! It was behind the bedroom cupboard. The cobra was one of the most dangerous snakes in the world.

At the hospital, the doctors placed an oxygen mask over Mikayla's pale face to help her breathe. They injected her with many types of medication. By morning, Mikayla was gasping for air. The poison had started to spread all over her body.

There once lived a king who was very bored. So, he decided to hold a contest. He wanted to amuse himself. Messengers were sent to all the villages in his kingdom.

They shouted, "The king will give a golden apple to the person who can tell the biggest lie!"

Soon, people from everywhere arrived. They shared their silly stories. A fisherman said that he spent a year living underwater! A young woman said she had ninety-five children! The king enjoyed these stories. However, he did not think that any story stood out from the others.

One day, an old woman appeared before the king. She was carrying a large pot. The king looked at her strangely and asked, "Do you need that pot to tell your story?"

"Oh no, your Majesty. I need it to collect the gold jewellery you borrowed from me. I lent it to you two months ago," she replied.

"I owe you a pot full of gold jewellery? Have you lost your mind?" exclaimed the confused king. He thought for a long time and continued, "Liar! I have never heard a bigger lie than yours!"

The old woman smiled.

Have you ever wondered how the sea water became salty? This question was once a mystery. Over the years, of course, some very strange (28) _____ have been created for this question.

According to one old tale, a magic salt grinding machine was stolen from its owner by some thieves. The thieves then took it with them on a ship. One of the thieves was (29) _____ to see how the machine worked. He turned it on without first finding out what the magic words were to get it to stop. As a result, it kept on making salt until the ship was so full that it finally (30) _____. Everyone and everything, including the salt grinding machine, were lost at sea. Although that machine is at the bottom of the sea, it nevertheless continues to make salt. That is why sea water is salty. Do you believe this old tale?

A more (31) _____ explanation is that the salt is washed into the sea by rivers. This process starts when rain falls onto the land. The rainwater picks up small amounts of salt and other minerals from the soil and as the water makes its way back to the sea, the salt is carried along with the river. After millions of years, these tiny amounts of salt in rivers are enough to make the sea salty. Isn't nature amazing?

Section E: Comprehension (10 marks)

Read the following passage carefully. Then write the answers for questions 36 to 40.

Christopher heard a loud roar. He realised that there was a waterfall just ahead. He scanned the riverbank. Tall, jagged rocks lined both sides of the river. Though young and inexperienced, he knew that it would be impossible to land the raft on those rocks. What was really worrying was that they were getting dangerously close to the waterfall which would lead to a steep drop into the lower parts of the river. Suddenly, he spotted a large tree with branches that extended over the river. 5

"Look!" shouted Christopher. "Up there! If we can get to that tree, we can grab onto the branches and climb out of the river."

"It's worth a shot," Uncle Nathan said. "Good plan." Christopher and his sister, Sarah, began paddling hard. Uncle Nathan expertly steered the raft towards the tree. They were moving fast. 10

"Here we go!" Uncle Nathan shouted. "Get ready to grab the tree and hang on tight!" The two children dropped their paddles in the raft and got ready. Thud! The raft slammed hard into the tree and stopped. They wrapped their arms around one of the tree's thick branches. 15

"Climb out!" shouted Uncle Nathan. "Forget the raft and hurry!" Christopher and Sarah struggled to pull themselves safely onto the tree. Then Uncle Nathan leapt onto the tree as well. Just as his feet left the raft, it slid away and disappeared over the waterfall. The three of them then scrambled off the tree and onto dry land. They lay on the shore, gasping for breath. 20

Suddenly, Christopher sat up quickly. "What about the keys? They were in the backpack!" Uncle Nathan also sat up and reached into his life jacket pocket. He pulled out the truck keys and shook them in his fingers. 25

"I took them out of my backpack this morning," he said. "I had a feeling I'd want to have them with me."

Adapted from 'Whitewater Courage' by Jake Maddox

Section H (4 x 2m)

Comprehension Open

Read the passage below and answer questions 39 to 42. Your answers must be based on the passage.

Alan and Rick were best friends since kindergarten. Not only were they in the school's basketball team, they were also neighbours. The boys spent every waking hour with each other.

One afternoon, while playing football, Rick broke his left arm. A doctor put Rick's arm in a cast. Three days later, Alan broke his right arm when he fell off his bicycle. Alan's arm was in a cast too. 5

"Let's get our classmates to sign on our casts!" Rick said excitedly to Alan. The first week the duo had their casts on was exciting as they did not have to run several laps during training and carry their own bags.

However, the boys soon began to feel bored and miserable as they suffered from Broken Arm Blues. They struggled to do many things by themselves. Rick could not jump rope on his own and play video games. "I can't even tie my own shoelaces and my arm itches terribly!" Alan complained. 10

Hoping to beat the blues, Alan and Rick decided to stop feeling sorry for themselves. They took a skipping rope, held the handles and jumped rope together. Encouraged by their success, the boys gave each other a high-five. 15

ALL ANSWERS MUST BE IN COMPLETE SENTENCES.

39. Which sentence in paragraph 1 shows that Alan and Rick were always together?

40. What two things were the boys spared from doing when their arms were in casts?

41. Why did Alan suffer from 'Broken Arm Blues' (line 11)?

42. What does their success (line 16) refer to?

Yesterday, thousands of visitors braved the crowds to take their last selfies with the manta rays, piranhas, dugongs and other marine life at the Underwater World Singapore before it closed for good. Around 8500 residents and tourists visited the 25-year-old attraction in Sentosa to bid it farewell.

Some came to visit the place that held fond memories of their younger days, while others took advantage of the lower admission prices. At the touch pools, children as well as adults squeezed their way to the edges for a chance to stroke the starfishes and stingrays.

The Underwater World's pink dolphins, seals and otters had been moved earlier to Chimelong Ocean Kingdom in China. It is one of the largest marine parks in the world.

Once the Underwater World closes, ten staff will stay on to operate and maintain the aquarium's life system and care for the remaining animals. They will do this until suitable homes are found for them.

When the Underwater World first opened in May 1991, it was the largest tropical fish aquarium in Asia. It was built at a cost of 20 million dollars. At that time, it was a big draw for tourists. However, in recent years, it has faced stiff competition from newer attractions such as the Marine Life Park. Many visitors also found the admission prices too high.

Not only is the admission fee to the Marine Life Park lower at $12, it also has the largest collection of manta rays in captivity. Visitors can choose to dine at the Ocean Restaurant located there. Faced with such competition, the Underwater World could not make enough money to keep its business running.

Section J – Comprehension 2

Read the passage below and answer questions 43 to 48.

(8 marks)

Govind was very excited because he was going to help his father harvest the vegetables from their farm the next day. He was thankful for the bountiful harvest as his father had decided to buy a new farm nearer to the town. For a long time, Govind had been dreaming of studying in town as there were more facilities like libraries and bookshops. The schools there were also better.

The next day, as Govind and his father were working on the farm, he noticed a puff of smoke coming out from the top of a nearby volcano. He ran to his father to tell him about it. Soon, more and more smoke was seen coming out of the volcano and the smell of the smoke was overpowering.

"This is not a good sign," remarked Govind's father gravely. He knew it was a sign that the volcano was about to erupt. With a heavy heart, he gathered all the farmers and they tried to harvest whatever crops they could. Then they packed their necessary belongings and left their homes.

10

Within two days, smoke and hot rocks spewed from the volcano. The volcano had indeed erupted. Lava seeped out and destroyed everything in its path. When Govind and his family learnt of the destruction, they were glad that they had made it out alive. "That was a narrow escape!" Govind exclaimed in relief.

15

All the farmers and their families were given temporary shelters in the town buildings. Govind's father managed to sell all his crops and he used the money to buy a smaller farm near the town. Although Govind's family had to start building a new life for themselves, Govind was excited that he was finally able to study in a school in town.

20

For question 43, write 1, 2, 3 or 4 in the brackets.

43. Govind dreamt of studying in a school in town because there were _____ there.
